St. Louis Cemetery - 1167 Barret Avenue | Louisville, KY 40204

St. Louis Cemetery is the oldest Catholic cemetery in Louisville, Kentucky. It is named for the first Catholic church in the city, St. Louis, which eventually became the Cathedral of the Assumption. The first St. Louis cemetery was opened in 1811 and was located behind the original Saint Louis Church at 10th and Main Streets. When Saint Louis Church was relocated in 1831, many of the grave sites were moved to the Catholic section of Western Cemetery. The grave sites were later moved again to the present Saint Louis Cemetery which was opened in 1867. There are 48,000 people buried in the cemetery.

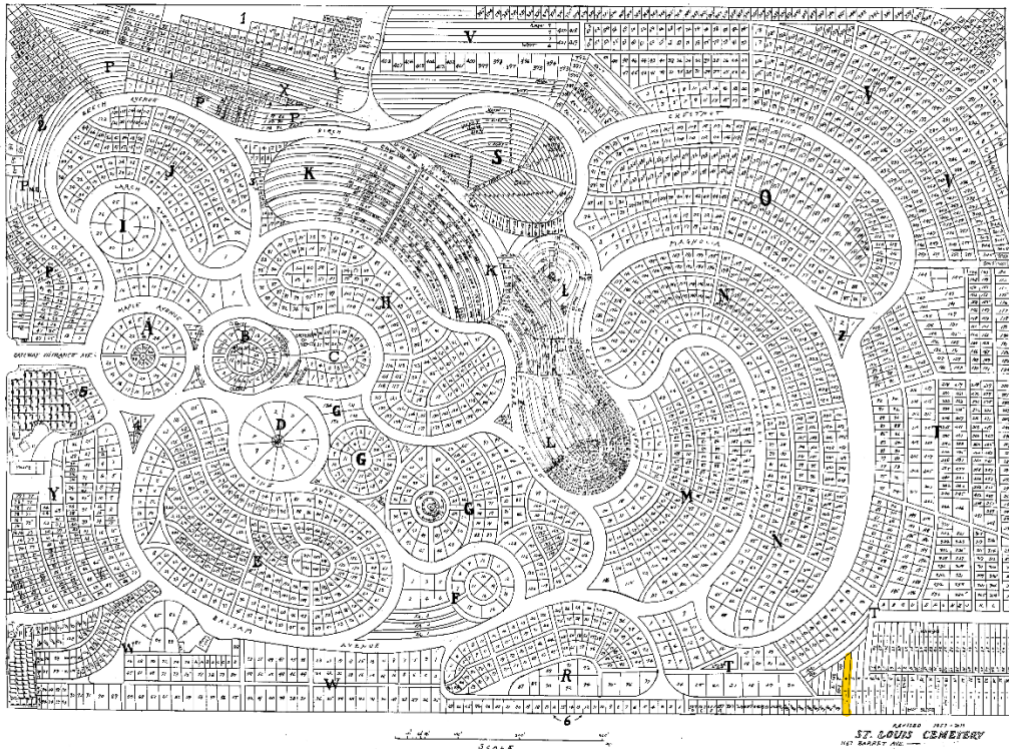

Saint Louis Cemetery has approximately 43 acres and is surrounded by over a mile of limestone wall. Saint Louis Cemetery was known as the "Irish" Catholic cemetery, but Catholics from many different heritages have been laid to rest here.

Black Catholics

The East Slope of the cemetery (the back right corner as you enter from Barrett Avenue) contains the resting place of 690 Black Catholics. Their burials took place between the years of 1869 and 1923, with most in the 1880s and 1890s. This section of the cemetery appears to be an empty field with only a dozen to twenty stone markers. The cemetery was segregated during the time when most burials took place, and the east slope was the Black section. While most Catholics were moved from Western Cemetery by the 1880s, it is unclear if Black Catholics were relocated. There was a separate, segregated section for Black interments in that cemetery, which has been deeply neglected and disturbed. Many, if not most, of the people here were formerly enslaved or the children of the enslaved. Their surnames often reflect white Catholic enslavers, for example, the many Spaldings. Their interment here shows that they remained Catholic following emancipation. Some notable persons buried in the East Slope of St. Louis Cemetery:

- Catharine and James Madison Smith, Conductors on the Underground Railroad
- Louis Hunter and Thomas Nichols, soldiers in the 107th United States Colored Infantry during the Civil War

Map: The East Slope begins with the highlighted mark and continues to the back wall.
